Foreword

The BC Labour Directory is an annual publication of the Policy and Legislation Branch of the Ministry of labour and Consumer Services which compiles information with respect to membership and officials of collective bargaining organizations in the province. The reference date for statistical information is January 1, 1990.

Information for this publication is obtained primarily from Statistics Canada's C.A.L.U.R.A. (Corporations and labour Unions Returns Act) Survey and is supplemented by information received directly from labour organizations in British Columbia. Every effort is made to obtain accurate and up-to-date information. The reliability of the information depends mainly on the accuracy of the respondents.

Particular attention is drawn to the union index at the end of the publication. Since some unions have locals with distinct and different names, and some unions are known by short names or initialism, this index is included to serve as a finding guide to the union listing including full and short forms, initialisms and local names.

We wish to thank all those who cooperated during the gathering of the information that went into the preparation of the BC Labour Directory. In the event that errors or omissions are discovered, it would be appreciated if they were brought to our attention (call 387-1776 in Victoria). The publication was produced by staff members Sharon Churchill, Jennifer York and Patrick Stanton.

UNION MEMBERSHIP SUMMARY - 1990

In 1990, trade union memberships in British Columbia reached 502,036 members. This total represented a 5.1% increase from the 1989 totals and was the highest annual total since 1982. As a result of this increase, the overall proportion of the provincial paid workforce belonging to unions rose to 37.7%.

Two new unions have been added to this year's publication and several trade unions underwent organizational or structural changes which are reflected in the Directory. These include:

Independent Towboat Operators' Association,

B.C. and Yukon Building and Construction Trades' Council, local 16.

In terms of changes, the Canadian Auto Workers expanded their British Columbia membership to 2,163 by the transfer of some members from the Transportation Communications Union and by the decision of the Railway Carmen to join the CAW. The B.C. Government Employees' Union has undergone a major restructuring of its component structures designed to reflect the fact that approximately one-third of its membership is now composed of workers from outside of the Provincial Government. In addition, the BCGEU expanded its membership, in part, by the decision of the Union of Bank Employees to merge with the BCGEU. Similarly, the Prince Rupert Amalgamated Shoreworkers' and Clerks' Union made the decision to merge with the larger Food and Commercial Workers' Union, local 2000.

A total of 25 trade unions in the province had a membership in excess of 5,000 in 1990 - these are listed in the accompanying Table 2. Most of these larger unions did record membership growth during the year, especially those traditionally organizing within the public sector areas of the economy. The province's two largest unions, the B.C. Government Employees' Union and the Canadian Union of Public Employees, also showed the largest increases with membership expansion of 11% and 19% respectively.

Unions with traditional interest in the health care field also experienced significant membership expansion; the Health Sciences Association by 13%, the Hospital Employees' Union by 10%, and the B.C. Nurses' Union by 5%. Other major trade unions posting membership gains of 5% or higher included the B.C. Teachers' Federation, the Teamsters, the Office and Professional Employees, the Canadian Paperworkers' Union, the Machinists, and the PPWC. A few major labour organizations did report a decline in membership in 1990 compared to 1989. These trade unions included IWA-Canada (drop of 2,033), the Food and Commercial Workers (decline of 1,575), the United Steelworkers (off 415), the IBEW (down by 453), and the United Fishermen (drop of 180).

Table 3 provides a breakdown of union membership by sex and lists those unions with a female membership exceeding 1,000. Overall, the numbers of women belonging to trade unions increased to 192,088 in 1990. This was an increase of 13,814 or 7.7%, and was more than twice the rate of growth experienced by male union membership figures (3.5%). Women now represent 38.3% of all union members within the province. The HEU, BCGEU, BCTF, CUPE and the B.C. Nurses' Union were the unions representing the most women members. Each had over 20,000 women members and combined represented 59.7% of all female union membership in the province.

In Table 4, a breakdown of union membership information by industrial sector is provided. Overall, the numerical and percentage distribution of membership by industry shows only marginal change from the previous year, and such change as has occurred has tended to parallel industrial adjustments towards an expanding service sector of our economy. For example, union membership growth appears to have been most rapid in the Community Services sector of Education and Health and Welfare Services, where membership appears to have expanded by nearly 13%. Union membership in the Construction sector and in Transportation and Communications also expanded in 1990, by 7% and 10%, respectively.

Union Headquarters and Locals

This section contains membership and officer information for both headquarters and locals of unions in British Columbia. Entries are arranged in alphabetical order according to the short name of the labour organizations although no official recognition of such abbreviated titles is intended. In those instances where a union's short name is derived from the initials of its full name, alphabetical listing is usually based on the first word in the full name. (For example CUPE comes under "Canadian Union" rather than under "CU").

Beneath the short and full title listing of each union is its affiliation, if any, to international and/or national congresses or federation. Abbreviations used are:

AFL-CIO	-American Federation of Labor -Congress of Industrial Organizations
CLC	-Canadian Labour Congress
CFL	-Canadian Federation of Labour
BC Fed	-British Columbia Federation of Labour
CCU	-Confederation of Canadian Union
AFL-CIO/CLC	-affiliated with both bodies
